Rise Of Ohio Eases Up At Cairo; City May Be Safe Behind Bulkhead

Cairo, Ill., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Heavy waves whipped up by an icy wind pounded at the bulkhead atop Cairo's seawall to-night, unleashing new power into the flood which flows above the level of the city's rooftops.

A 20-mile-an-hour wind, blowing in sub-freezing weather, churned the swollen Ohio and sent it splashing a foot high along the earth and wooden rampart that is Cairo's last line of defense against inundation.

PADUCAH IS ALL BUT DESERTED IN GRIP OF WATERS

Only Few Scattered
Hundreds Remain
In The City

Officers Will Not Push "Evacuation By Force"

Paducah, Ky., Feb. 1.—(AP)—The full force of the Ohio's greatest flood flowed quietly over this all but deserted city to-night.

Creeping at a peak of 60 feet, the river coursed across lowland rooftops and ran in currents down business streets whose only traffic was the power hoses of civil and military authorities.

With the river at crest—it sprawled 10 miles wide—authorities said it was doubtful if the "evacuation by force" order would be pushed to completion against the few scattered hundreds of persons who remained. A house-to-house canvass of the eight square miles of flooded city would be necessary.

"Present indications are that it would not be safe to reside in Paducah for at least a month because of difficulties to be encountered in reopening the water system and the possibility of epidemics of disease," said Dr. Russell Teague, director of the county health department.

Practically every residence in the city of 30,000 was entered by the flood waters. Leo P. Whalen, engineer of the PWA inspection division, estimated 2,000 houses were under water and said Paducah's flood losses probably would be $4,000,000.

All concentration points in the flooded city were cleared of refugees tonight. More than 25,000 had been routed through Mayfield, Ky., 24 miles to the south. Paducahs found temporary shelter in towns and villages throughout western Kentucky and Tennessee.

Stories of days and nights of anxious waiting, studded with moments of sharp fear, came from refugees as they took up temporary quarters in nearby cities.

Miss Faye Medley, a hostess mill worker, told of being trapped with 20 fellow workers for three nights in a heatless second-floor apartment while the flood waters steadily mounted toward their haven.

"We slept on the floors, huddled together for warmth," she said, "and hoped and prayed for a boat. We signalled them from the streets but each time they would say there are more people in greater danger than you. You'll have to wait your turn."

TOPOGRAPHY

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes submitted to congress today a plan to expedite the topographic mapping of the United States. The work would cost $100,000,000 over a 20-year period.

SIXTEEN CITIES IN ILLINOIS ARE BOUND BY FLOOD

Present Grim Panorama Of Widespread Destruction

Advise Evacuation of Harrisburg, 22 Miles From Ohio

Harrisburg, Ill., Feb. 1.—(AP)—From Shawneetown on the east to Cairo on the west, Illinois' Ohio valley was a grim panorama tonight of widespread floodwaters coursing as much as 25 miles from the normal river channel.

Robert Isham, WPA engineer here, called the roll of the state's major flood-affected and flood-threatened cities and towns.

Shawneetown, Ridgway, Equality, Harrisburg, Eldorado, Cave-In-Rock, Rosiclare, Golconda, Brookport, Metropolis, Vienna, Mound City, Mounds, Karnak, Ullin and Cairo.

Safe so far against the river, Cairo was making a valiant fight behind its heightened levee. Equality, Eldorado, Ullin and Vienna still were accessible, but only by devious detours.

But in other communities, the floodwaters brought isolation, desolation and disease.

Shawneetown, first in Illinois to feel the river's wrath, was completely evacuated. Isham reported water was two to three feet deep in the second stories of its buildings. Brookport, Mounds and Mound City likewise were inundated by the river and deserted by their residents.

Floodwaters encircled the other towns, cutting off all rail and highway outlets, and covered a greater part of their areas. Harrisburg's plight was a striking illustration of the river's might.

Although normally 22 miles away, the Ohio spilled its backwaters over 80 per cent of the town, flooding the waterworks, the sanitation system and the gas plant. Boats were bringing in drinking water in milk cans.

Only the central part of the town stood above the flood and here 3,000 refugees were housed in private homes, the court house, churches and other buildings. An increase in respiratory ailments was noted and an outbreak of contagious diseases was feared.

City officials and medical authorities, as a precautionary health measure, asked all residents to evacuate.

Construction of a pipe line to bring water from outside the city to the dry central portion was delayed by slow delivery of the pipe.

A fire boat was built to patrol flooded sections of this city of 12,000. Joseph Sullivan, a chief of the Chicago fire department, came to take charge should a fire emergency arise.

The peak of the water in Harrisburg was not expected until tomorrow or Wednesday—about the same time as the river crests at Cairo—but the rate had slowed to one-fourth of an inch an hour.

Recover Bodies Of Five Men Drowned In Flood Spillway

Search for Others Who Went Down With Steel Barge

New Madrid, Mo., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Bodies of five levee workers, drowned on a steel barge carrying more than 100 men sank in a flood-prevention spillway, were recovered from the icy waters late today.

They were brought up by log chains and hooks operated from a half dozen motorboats in the area where the barge submerged late Saturday night.

At the time of the accident, the men were being taken to New Madrid for food after a long, cold day spent strengthening a setback levee on the western edge of a 131,000-acre basin purposely flooded to ease pressure on the seawall at Cairo, Ill.

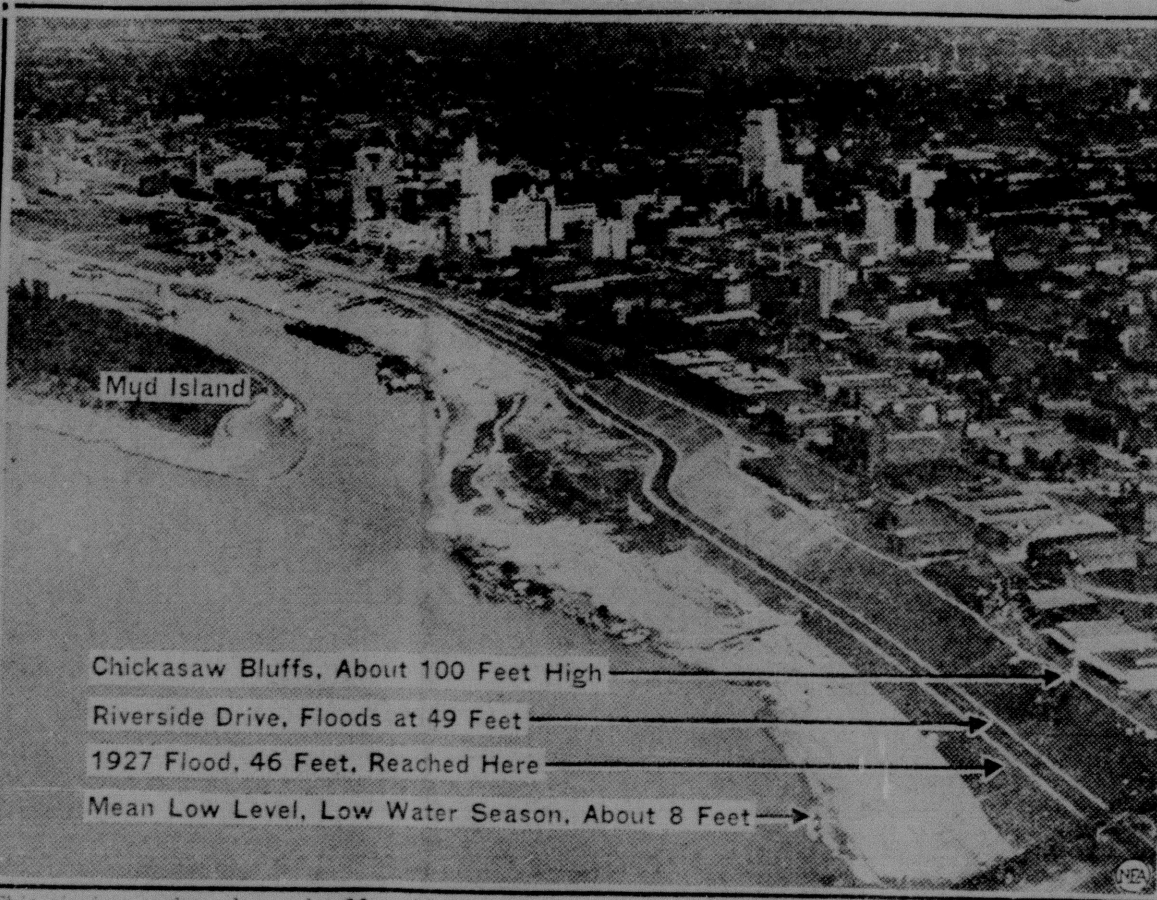

Four of the five were tentatively identified by Jess Wilkins, assistant New Madrid county clerk, as Merle Ballard, George Baker, Frank Dean and Floyd Scott. Wilkins made his identification by water-soaked meal tickets in the men's clothing.

U. S. army engineers continued a check to determine if approximately 30 others unaccounted for had perished.

Bordering the 27-mile-long floodway basin where the barge went down with more than 100 men aboard Saturday night, workers sandbagged dikes two to four feet higher to withstand a flood crest approaching on the Ohio-fed Mississippi.

Wind-driven waves rolled across the spillway and lapped at the feet of dikes defenders near East Prairie, one of the concentration camps for refugees. An overflow anywhere along the earthen setback would unleash the flood on thousands of acres of rich Missouri farmland.

Why Memphis Is Safe Haven for Flood Refugees

This airview makes clear why Memphis, though situated on the banks of the Mississippi river, was chosen by the Red Cross as a haven for the encampment of 50,000 refugees from flood swept or imperiled lowlands in Tennessee, Arkansas and Mississippi. The city's principal business and residential sections sit on a high bluff above the river, safe from flood danger, though a further rise in the river was expected to inundate the lowlying waterfront fringe, including Riverside Drive. The main business section, opposite Mud Island, at the left, enjoys practically the same elevation observable above the drive at the right.

SUPREME COURT REFUSES RULING ON PENSION ACT

Decline To Pass On Social Security Legislation

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The supreme court refused today for the second time to pass on litigation involving the social security act.

A final ruling on this prime New Deal legislation was thus postponed indefinitely.

The court declined to review an appeal brought by Hovos Brothers company of Boston, Mass. The petition challenged both the Massachusetts unemployment insurance law and the federal act, which the state statute complements.

The Hovos company contended the state act was inoperative because the federal law was unconstitutional. The Massachusetts supreme judicial court had dismissed the litigation.

No reason for the highest court's refusal to review the case was given.

On January 4 the high tribunal declined to pass on an appeal brought by George P. Davis of Boston from a ruling by the Massachusetts federal district court upholding the legislation.

He sought a review without waiting for a customary ruling by the circuit court of appeals.

Decisions in 23 cases were announced today by the justices, but they deferred rulings on the two major controversies pending. These involve the constitutionality of the Washington law establishing minimum wages for women and the question whether the 1933 congressional resolution barring payment of obligation in gold applied to bullion as well as to coin.

In the first 5 to 4 decision this term, the justices held invalid a Washington state law imposing a fee on railroads and other public utilities to be used in paying expenses of their regulation.

Justice Roberts, in the majority opinion, held that the state had not proved the amount levied against the Great Northern Railway company did not exceed "what is reasonably needed for the service rendered."

AMENDMENT ON CHILD LABOR IS DEFEATED

Raleigh N. C., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Following precedent set by two previous assemblies, the house today defeated, 58 to 47, a bill to ratify the federal child labor amendment.

Representative "Pete" Murphy of Salisbury, a veteran of 21 legislative sessions, led opposition to the measure and applied a parliamentary maneuver requiring a two-thirds vote to gain reconsideration.

"Every man worth a damn worked before he was 18 years old," shouted Murphy.

"Pin-headed protoplasm of a federal agent would be snooping about our farms hunting for a boy attending to the chores," if the bill were passed, he said.

POSTPONE QUIZ

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The La Follette civil liberties committee today postponed until next week its investigation of the General Motors strike.

The committee had planned to reopen its hearing Wednesday.

Horner Names Three Men For Backing To Federal Judgeships

Attorney General Otto Kerner Heads List of Favorites

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois said today he believed there would be no appointments to the two vacancies on the circuit court of appeals at Chicago until President Roosevelt has definitely determined whether a policy of promoting district judges is to be followed.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Governor Horner named three men today as having his backing for appointments to federal judgeships.

Heading the list was Attorney General Otto Kerner, endorsed for the United States circuit court of appeals vacancy caused by the retirement of Judge Samuel Alschuler.

High approval also was given Circuit Judge Maurice V. Joyce of East St. Louis as a candidate for the place on the same bench that has been empty since the death of Judge Louis FitzHenry of Bloomington.

In the discussion of the vacancies, the governor added that he had told Washington officials that Michael L. Tjoe of Chicago, United States District attorney, would be a good selection for a federal district judgeship.

Mr. Horner's endorsements were part of the business he transacted at Washington during the Roosevelt inauguration ceremonies. For months the names of more than a dozen prominent attorneys and judges have been reported to be under consideration by the Justice Department and Senators Lewis and Dieterich for the appeals vacancies.

Asked about the possibility that John E. Cassidy would get the attorney generalship in that case, Mr. Horner said, "I don't know." Cassidy was the Horner candidate for Lieutenant governor in the 1936 democratic primary fight.

Kerner has a real law department for the state government and I am proud of the work he has done," the governor added.

Floods Threaten Western Oregon

Portland, Ore., Feb. 1.—(AP)—A forecast of warmer temperatures raised the spectre of floods in western Oregon tonight as Portland dug out from under the heaviest 24-hour snowfall in history and winter continued its grip on other Pacific northwest areas. Three traffic deaths were attributed to the storm.

Snow blocked highways in Washington, Oregon and the mountain districts of Northern California, which was warned a new storm would blow in from the Pacific, probably tonight.

A 16-inch snowstorm here virtually paralyzed business, closed schools, marooned street cars, and limited traffic to a few hardy pedestrians.

The flood danger lay over the whole of the long Willamette valley, buried under snows equally deep south to Eugene, 125 miles distant. Rapidly melting snows would turn the Willamette river into a dangerous freighted torrent.

SENATE WARNED FUNDS FOR WORK RELIEF NEEDED

Conflict Rages Over Bill As Money Nears Exhaustion

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Senator Glass (D-Va.) warned the Senate today that work relief funds were nearly exhausted.

Despite his warning, however, the Senate made little progress on a $500,000,000 deficiency bill appropriating $750,000,000 to replenish the funds.

Conflict over the amount of the appropriation grew more bitter.

The leaders did, however, succeed in removing one obstacle to the bill.

They negotiated a backstage compromise on a rider attached by the House to prevent congressional investigating committees from borrowing WPA help. Under the compromise, the use of relief employees would be continued, with Congress constantly informed of their activities.

A warm debate over the appropriations committee's proposal for a $15,000,000 cut in resettlement administration funds blocked action on the bill, and gave a forecast of the battle scheduled for tomorrow to increase the relief appropriation from $750,000,000 to $1,200,000,000.

Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, opened the attack on the proposed cut, reading a statement from Secretary Wallace that it would leave many partly constructed buildings unfinished.

This statement was quickly challenged by Senator Adams (D-Colo.) who charged heatedly that "either Secretary Wallace has misinformed the senator or resettlement officials misinformed the committee on appropriations."

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) interrupted to observe that one difficulty about the relief projects was that it was "impossible to tell" what their ultimate cost would be.

ILLINOIS CONSIDERS USE OF SCHOOL BUS

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Now perhaps grandfather can recount his boyhood tramp through miles of snow to the school house without fearing Junior might go him one better.

County superintendents, meeting tomorrow at the office of John A. Wieland, superintendent of public instruction, will consider proposed legislation providing that the state pay the cost of transportation for each child residing more than two miles from the nearest school, the contribution not to exceed 10 cents per day.

The proposed legislation on transportation, which is one of 17 proposals under discussion, would empower the district school officials to determine the method of transportation, permitting them, if need be, to operate bus or buses.

THE ONLY ANSWER

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Senator Capper (R-Kans.) spoke in the senate today for ratification of the child labor amendment to the constitution.

He said child labor is increasing and the "only answer" is control by congress.

Workers Riot At Flint On Eve Of Injunction; A Number Are Injured

Flint, Mich., Feb. 1.—(AP)—The 126th infantry of the national guard, 1,200 strong, moved tonight into the Chevrolet Motor Company zone, where rioting occurred this afternoon.

Movement of the regiment by truck began shortly before 9 p. m. (EST). The men had full combat equipment, including rifles, bayonets, machine guns and tear gas.

They were ordered to clear all persons from the area around the Chevrolet plant and to permit no one to enter without a military pass.

Local national guard officers emphasized the martial law had not been declared. In Detroit, Governor Murphy and Col. Lewis indicated that there was no present thought of declaring martial law.

The 125th infantry, which followed the 126th by two days into Flint, remained in its barracks.

Flint, Mich., Feb. 1.—(AP)—At least a dozen persons were injured, two seriously, in union demonstrations within and outside the huge Chevrolet Motor company plant today while in the Genesee circuit court General Motors corporation argued for an injunction to eject strikers from two Fisher body plants.

Tonight Chevrolet plant No. 4, the motor assembly division, was in possession of workers who staged a new sit-down strike as the night shift of 2,500 employees entered the plant. Company officials said approximately 200 were engaged in the strike.

Circuit Judge Paul V. Gadola, who heard four hours of argument by counsel for General Motors and the United Automobile Workers of America, adjourned the injunction hearing until 9 A. M. (EST) tomorrow, when he will give his decision.

The injunction hearing was not interrupted by the disorders which occurred at Chevrolet plant No. 9, an employee said, when police attempted to break up a form of "inside picket line" composed of thirty union workers. The "pickets" resisted, and the ensuing fight set off clashes with union demonstrators outside the plant.

This disorder, in which women wearing red berets and arm bands with the "E. B." insignia of the U. A. W. A. "emergency brigade" participated, was followed by the new "sit-down" at plant No. 4.

Sheriff's deputies formed a line inside a high wire fence marking company property some distance from the No. 4 plant and frustrated attempts by outside pickets to clamber over and join the sit-down strikers.

Robert Travis, U. A. W. A. organizer, said tonight that the workers were protesting against what he termed "discrimination against union men seeking to work at their customary jobs."

In half an hour after the first protest started, Travis said, seven plants were experiencing sit-down protests with 7,000 workers involved.

Travis claimed an "attack" on workers, in plant 9 was led by company police armed with tear gas pistols and bombs, blackjacks and clubs.

Several hundred men and women had rushed to plant No. 9, the motor parts division, from a union mass meeting, where the announcement was made that "they are throwing a union man out of the Chevrolet plant." Both men and women were armed with clubs, with which they broke windows in the plant.

There were reports that the union had planned to call a strike for 3:30 p. m., shortly before the change in shifts, to protest alleged discrimination against union men.

It was about this time when the demonstration within the plant began. Company police, reinforced by 11 Flint policemen, and nonunion employees fought with union workmen intent upon the demonstration and it was within the plant that all of the known injuries occurred.

Marilyn Craft, 30, of Davison, Mich., suffered a brain concussion and a possible skull fracture.

He and Emerson P. Huggard, 41, were in Hurley hospital. Huggard suffered a severe laceration over one eye.

Chevrolet company officials said that "about a dozen" men were treated at the plant hospital for minor protest against the sit-down.

Among them was Capt. Lloyd Wetman, 30, head of the Chevrolet plant police, who suffered a head wound. Two other company policemen, Robert Elliott, 25, and Leland Robinson, 29, suffered minor head injuries.

DATE WITH GABLE
Los Angeles, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Violet Wells Norton, husky Canadian who says she believes Clark Gable of the movies is the father of her 13-year-old daughter, pleaded innocent today to a charge of misuse of the mails to defraud.

Jack Smith, private detective indicted with her, also pleaded innocent.

Mrs. Norton said she was very angry because other women prisoners in the county jail had been asking her.

"Have you a date with Clark Gable tonight?"

BELIEVE LEVEES WILL HOLD BACK A 'SUPER FLOOD'

Engineers Say Basin Of Mississippi Is Safe From Water

Cite Fact That no Government Levee Has Broken

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Major General Edward M. Markham, chief of army engineers, expressed belief today super-flood waters in sight on the Mississippi river would flow inside the government's billion-dollar bulwark of levees to the Gulf without bursting out of bounds.

"We have every reason to reaffirm our optimism regarding the water that is in sight," he said. "I think it should be emphasized that no government levee has yet been damaged. All levees overtopped or collapsed have been local levees and not a part of the government main-line system."

Evacuations continued in lowland sections, adding hundreds of refugees to the list of uncounted thousands being cared for by the Red Cross and other agencies, while the mighty Mississippi rolled higher and higher above previous crests.

At Memphis, the river reached 46.5 feet on the weather bureau gauge, more than 12 feet above flood level. On the district engineer's grade, the water measured 47.9 feet, or 13 feet over the all-time record of 46.6 in the big overflow of 1913.

Meteorologist P. W. Brist said that barring further heavy rainfall, the Mississippi would crest here at 48 feet above February 9, and at 53.5 feet at Helena, Ark., February 10 to 12.

Stiff winds kicked water dangerously against the Cats Landing dike in the Slough Landing Neck area, where yesterday the lower end of this secondary levee gave way to the on-rushing river at Besse in northwest Tennessee. A new break there might endanger the Missouri side and the Reelfoot Lake territory in Tennessee.

Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator and chairman of the president's commission, conferred here with relief authorities from Tennessee, Arkansas and Missouri and said they were doing "a magnificent job of relief work."

After the inspection tour into Arkansas the commission arranged to return to Memphis for the night. The members will leave tomorrow morning by automobile for New Madrid, Mo., thence going by boat to Hickman, Ky., and Cairo, Ill., on their flood tour.

"No plans or powers are being held up pending our conferences with local officials," Hopkins said. "Authority has been completely decentralized. We are prepared to do the job that needs to be done. We want to see that nothing is omitted."

NINE-YEAR-OLD GIRL'S MARRIAGE IS "LEGAL"

Sneedville, Tenn., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Tennessee authorities failed today to find a law for action on the marriage of 9-year-old Eunice Winstead to 22-year-old Charlie Johns, but State Speaker Byron Pope said he would support "proper" legislation for age limits in the future.

The wedding two weeks ago of the little girl and the six foot mountain climber continued to draw criticism. "I think it's nothing short of a tragedy for anything like that to happen," commented Governor Gordon Browning.

At Knoxville, 60 miles from here, club women and social workers voiced protests, terming the marriage a "disgrace" to Tennessee and demanding laws to prevent recurrence.

Unaware of it all in their isolated community, the bride and her strapping husband stayed at the home of the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Winstead, making plans to build their own cabin soon.

Do Not Be Deceived

Creation of any new governmental agency brings possibilities of racketeering. The "easy money" boys are right on the job, to fatten on the gullible and thrive on false claims until Uncle Sam steps in and puts an end to their operations. The social security law, under which millions of men and women and their employers contribute to an old age pension fund, has been no exception. It has come to light that Illinois is one of several states in which racketeers are attempting to "gyp" citizens through the sale of courses of study which presumably "assure" persons of positions in federal social security service. Operations of these racketeers have become so widespread and noticeable that the social security board in Washington has issued a warning to the public.

The operators of the "racket," it is said, are attempting to collect money for the course with the promise that they have connections which will lead to immediate placement under the social security board. At the end of the course, however, the report states, the "students" are informed that all they have to do is to pass the civil service examination to be in line for the promised positions.

Members of the social security board have pointed out that any person can take the examinations, regardless of whether they have taken the course of instruction. They declare the organizations have not been authorized to sell the course in behalf of the board and none have connections which will assure appointments.

The board has received inquiries relative to the "course of study" from several Illinois cities. Some of the persons writing letters said they have paid fees and asked how to get their money back. They have been informed their only remedy is to sue the persons collecting it. A federal indictment has been returned against one organization, which has offices in another state.

The public should beware of such skin games, particularly at a time when the social security board is still in the process of formation. The federal civil service does not require payment of fees or commissions in obtaining governmental employment. Persons who contribute to "courses" or other so-called organizations claiming they are of assistance, do so at their own risk.

Business men, too, should be on the alert for propositions involving the social security set-up. Salesmen who claim to have information or equipment that the employer "can't get along without," are not acting as government agents.

If there is anything you don't understand about the social security law ask or write a recognized government authority. Don't take chances with unofficial sources, which might be unreliable or unscrupulous.

What if He Does?

What if the Ground Hog does see his shadow today?

We have been doing pretty well in regard to weather, after all. There was the sleet storm, of course. But we can expect some ice and snow about this time of year. Even though Mr. Ground Hog spots his silhouette the first thing this morning and ducks back into his subterranean apartment, Morgan county citizens shouldn't "kick" about the brand of weather this winter.

Sub-zero weather has been almost entirely lacking. The highways have not been blocked by snow at any time. The temperatures from day to day show that we have thus far experienced an "open" winter.

If the next six weeks are a repetition of the kind of weather that has existed since Christmas, people will have no reason to complain. Remember that cold wave in 1936? Temperatures 15 and 18 below zero last winter were considerably different than those of the present season.

Despite the sleet storm experience, we believe that this section of the country is pretty lucky. Out in California they are having some more unusual weather in larger doses than usual. Letters from relatives and friends in Southern California make us glad we are right here in Central Illinois, with all of its tricky weather reputation.

During the last few weeks parts of Southern California had freezes—not little ones, but freezes that caused automobiles to steam and water pipes in homes to burst. The orange growers have had their "smudge" fires going until householders in some places have forgotten what a clean house looks like.

Some orange men who usually burn crude oil in "smudging" operations ran low on that particular product, and substituted old automobile tires as fuel. The change wasn't relished by the communities subject to the fumes and smoke.

California will soon forget the cold spell, but Illinois, too, is well on its way through the winter. Here it is February, and only one day when the mercury was below zero.

Out of curiosity we'll keep an eye on the Ground Hog. But regardless of his antics, we believe the elements have been decent to Central Illinois this winter.

A Valuable Addition

Sheriff Gus H. Campbell of Cass county has announced that in the future he will fingerprint all persons arrested in his county. Files compiled by the Cass county official will prove a valuable addition in his equipment, and increase the efficiency of his office.

For several years the Jacksonville police department and sheriff's office have used a system of fingerprinting in their work. These records have occasionally proved of much value.

The law enforcement machinery of Central Illinois will be strengthened every time officials of a county adopt a fingerprint system. When all counties are provided with this scientific method of keeping check on criminals, this section of the state will be in much better position to control crime.

Faces may change, but fingerprints do not. The science of fingerprinting long ago passed out of the guessing stage. It is one of the recognized methods of identification.

Sheriff Campbell's decision may set other Illinois sheriffs to thinking. There is little reason why all counties in this part of the state shouldn't be equipped to take fingerprints of all persons who run afoul of the law.

Paid For Itself

One of the most important forward steps in recent years was the installation by the State of Illinois of its highway police radio system within the past year.

The state radio system was created with the general approval of the people. Anyone acquainted with the working of the system immediately recognizes its possibilities.

During the flood emergency of the past week, when the state highway police stations handled a constant stream of messages day and night, the system proved its value regardless of cost.

One official, on return from the flood zone, declared that the highway police radio equipment had paid for itself in three days' time.

Although the state does not as yet have portable, wireless, for use in emergencies, the established stations on the system have their own wave length channels and amateur stations in Southern Illinois, Kentucky and Missouri were able to keep in constant touch with them in transmission of official orders and reports relating to rescues and refugee relief.

The emergency has proved that the radio system is of the utmost value in time of disaster. It had previously demonstrated its worth, in a few short months of operation, in apprehending criminals and speeding up law enforcement.

They Waited Too Long

Down in Florida has been witnessed another example of the usual procedure which follows a great calamity of any kind.

Shocked by the occurrence of such tragedies, public sentiment is aroused to demand that "it must not happen again." Too often this burst of precaution dies out until another like tragedy occurs.

Only a few days ago a passenger bus was traveling over one of the hard surfaced highways through the vast swampy region in southern Florida known as the Everglades. This bus was for some reason hurled from the road into the midst of the shallow mucky waters, and 17 persons were drowned.

Owing to the remote and isolated spot where the accident occurred, the survivors had a terrible time trying to summon aid. It was 20 miles to the nearest telephone. The scene of death which resulted from the accident was made all the more distressing by the delays in getting anyone to come to the rescue of those who had been plunged into the swamp.

The highway in this region was constructed by dredging part of the swampy land and making a road alongside a ditch 15 feet deep, the highway unguarded from any accidental spill into the canal.

Now the people of Florida are aroused to demand legislation and administrative measures to make the roads through the 150 miles of uninhabited country between Miami and Fort Myers safer for public travel. Guard rails for the highway, location of telephone stations at frequent intervals and other measures are proposed. Some of these eventually may be realized.

Now The Mississippi

Will the Mississippi flood control system hold?

That is the next big question of the Ohio valley disaster. Its answer will be anxiously awaited. It will be given

The Family Doctor

Chronic Typhoid Carriers May Be Cured by Removal of Gallbladder

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Some common terms used in discussing the spread of diseases are not well understood by many people. Two such terms, for instance, are the words "contagious" and "infectious." A contagious disease is one that is catching, and usually implies spread by direct or personal contact, since the word "contagious" comes from a word meaning "to touch."

An infectious disease usually is one that is not carried directly, but is directly through some hidden influence. The distinction is really an artificial one, and actually there is no difference.

Many infectious diseases are contagious, and vice versa. A better term for them is "communicable disease," which refers to a disease that can be passed from one person or one animal to another.

The carrier, as has already been mentioned, is frequently a medium of communication. About 33 per cent of people who have typhoid fever continue to discharge the germs for three weeks after the beginning of the disease, and 11 per cent continue to discharge the germs for eight to 10 weeks. From 2 to 4 per cent, however, may continue to pass off germs permanently. These people are known as chronic typhoid carriers.

For some reason, women outnumber men as carriers of typhoid, which is probably due to the fact that women are more subject to inflammation of the gallbladder than are men, and that typhoid germs tend to localize and stay in the gallbladder.

The most notorious typhoid carrier is a woman known as "Typhoid Mary." She was a cook in a family for three years, and in 1901 she developed typhoid fever, following a visit to the family by someone who had the disease. A month later the husband in this family became ill with typhoid fever.

In 1902, Mary left her job for a new place, and two weeks after she arrived the laundress in that family had typhoid fever. A week later another person became ill and soon seven members of the household were stricken with typhoid.

In 1904 Mary secured a job in a Long Island home in which were a family of four, and seven servants. About three weeks after she arrived, four of the servants developed typhoid fever.

In 1906 she secured another job, and six of the 11 members of that family developed typhoid. Two weeks after beginning her next job, a laundress was stricken with typhoid.

In 1907 she entered a home in New York City, and two cases developed promptly, one of which proved fatal.

In five years "Typhoid Mary" caused 26 cases of typhoid fever, so, in March, 1907, the New York Department of Health locked her up. Not much was heard of her again until 1914, when she escaped from observation and secured a job as a cook in a hospital for women in New York City.

Two months later an outbreak of typhoid fever occurred in that hospital, affecting principally doctors and nurses. Twenty-five cases in all developed. Today she is maintained at state expense in a private place in New York, where her activities as a cook at least are under control.

There are innumerable similar cases now available in medical literature, which prove definitely that a person who is infected chronically with typhoid germs must exercise extreme care in handling food and liquids for other people.

Attempts have been made to control this type of typhoid carrying by operation on the gallbladder. In many such cases, the chronic typhoid carrier may be cured of his condition by removal of the gallbladder, which is done with a fair degree of safety in most cases.

The health department of Massachusetts estimates that there are probably 1,100 carriers in that state alone. This indicates how many thousands there must be in the whole United States.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

Relief Program Faces Cloudy Future . . . Great Flood Scrambled Administration Plans . . . FDR's Goal: $100,000,000 Monthly WPA Cost by June . . . Experts Believe It Impossible . . . Only One-Fifth of Recovery, Relief Expenditures Are Recoverable, Estimated.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal-Courier Washington Correspondent

Washington—The immediate future of the federal relief program is always blurred.

True to old-time habits, the Roosevelt administration again plunges into the next few months of relief with its fingers crossed, its face grim, and an ear cocked for the first sound of rioting or other protests at proposed drastic curtailment of WPA.

And as if also from habit, Mother Nature—after heretofore contenting herself with sending droughts—has now again added further to the complexities and foginess of the program with a great, disastrous flood, which scrambles all the previous blueprints, reliable or otherwise.

The $700,000,000 deficiency bill for relief, passed by the House and headed through the Senate, provides $650,000,000 to carry WPA to the end of June. Theoretically, and on the word of Administrator Harry Hopkins, the plan is to cut the present WPA army of 2,200,000 persons down to 1,600,000 by June, a reduction of 600,000 heads of families and single persons.

More WPA-ers

Actually there will be no such reduction, and it is most unlikely that it would have been achieved even if there had been no flood. With 1,000,000 persons made homeless by the catastrophe, don't be surprised if there are more men and women on the WPA rolls in June than there are right now.

In addressing a House subcommittee, Hopkins said it would be difficult to hold the WPA figures down to those he outlined. He began with the assumption that the WPA roll would not increase in January and February—"an assumption that cannot readily be made, because in every other year the relief rolls have jumped in the wintertime."

He referred to the plan for reduction of 600,000 not as a program, but as "our proposal" and "our proposition," explaining it was "based on continued recovery and assumes a good agricultural year, that will make drought expenditures unnecessary." Providing also for a monthly reduction in cost per man, with an "assumption" that "we will get more money out of sponsors."

Ambitious Program
Obviously there were plenty of assumptions—and loopholes—in Hopkins' statement which didn't appear in public reports.

What Hopkins really was saying was that he would try to carry out ideas of the president—ideas pressed upon Roosevelt by Secretary Morgenthau, the group which would balance the budget at all costs except that of new taxation, and southern conservative Democrats led by Chairman Buchanan and Glass of the House and Senate appropriations committees.

If possible, Hopkins would try to get WPA costs down to $146,000,000 for March with a cut of 50,000; to $134,500,000 for April by cutting 150,000 more; and finally to $103,000,000 for June after juggling off 200,000 more by May and 200,000 more by June.

Roosevelt wanted to get WPA expenses down to $100,000,000 a month or less for the fiscal year 1937-38.

Other WPA experts believed this program could not be achieved, that the need of WPA jobs was too great, that effective protests would be made, that there would be little reduction, and that more money would be found "somewhere."

They were willing to back up this belief with statistics as to need, indicating that 600,000 families couldn't be tossed off WPA without great suffering and more rioting than the administration would care to contemplate.

Official figures on New Deal expenditures for recovery and relief, as provided by Chairman Buchanan of the House Appropriations Committee, show expenditures of $1,385,000,000 in the fiscal year 1933, $3,093,000,000 for 1934, $3,506,000,000 for 1935, $3,263,000,000 for 1936, and $3,184,000,000 for 1937, assuming the bill for $700,000,000 were the last of it.

Those figures include WPA, FCA, HOLC, RFC, NRA, TVA, PWA, and other costs and Buchanan estimates that of the total fifteen billions some three or four billions is recoverable. (Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.)

Chandlerville.—With almost sixty years of continuous business to his credit, Henry Dorr has no contender for the honor of being the oldest merchant in Chandlerville. He established the business in 1878 in a very small building. He moved to larger and larger quarters, at one time constructing a brick store a block long.

New Scene of Flood Peril

Where New Flood Menaces Lower Mississippi

As the mad-cap Mississippi rolled southward, swollen by the burden of the Ohio waters it carried, army engineers made ready to evacuate hundreds of thousands should the billion-dollar levee system shown on this map fail to hold back flood waters. Engineers said the flood was pouring into the Mississippi channel 3,000,000 cubic of water per second against levees which were built to handle only 2,400,000 cubic feet. Particularly threatened were the main line levees below Cairo, Ill., and in the Memphis district.

Judge Wright Holds Court Session; Many Orders are Entered

Allow Plaintiffs to Examine Books in Rohrer Case; Approve Reports

Judge Walter Wright convened the Morgan county circuit court Monday morning for the first time in more than two weeks during which he was conducting sessions of the Cook county circuit court, and entered a number of orders.

Attorneys for Clara Challans and W. H. Rohrer and the Rohrer Livestock company appeared before the court to argue whether it was lawful to permit the plaintiffs in the case to examine the firm's books in an effort to obtain action on the suit brought as a complaint in chancery in aid of execution of a judgment obtained on a note alleged to have been sold by the defendant to the plaintiff, and the court ruled that the plaintiffs had the right to examine the books of the Rohrer Livestock company.

The court also approved the sale of several pieces of property by the receiver of the Ayers National bank, selling property to Daisy R. Osborne, Edward Cleary, J. A. Knoepfel, and William Edward Irlam, and approving settlement of a note held by the receiver against W. T. and Aleina Richardson.

Current reports of the estates of Iven Wood, Henry Streuter, Julius Gates and J. Frank Strawn, and Carl Ottwell were approved and filed.

Mildred Lillian Massie was granted a divorce from her husband, Edward Leroy Massie, on the grounds of desertion. The suit was uncontested.

CARROLLTON MISSED BY SUPPLY CARAVAN

Food, Service Not Needed as 320 Trucks Take a Different Route

Preparations at Carrollton to service 320 trucks and feed 750 men for breakfast Sunday morning went for naught. The trucks, carrying supplies from northern states to the flood country, didn't come that way. It was expected that the caravan would use Routes 111 and 108 enroute to Alton but the plan of travel was evidently changed.

It is reported that the truck caravan traveled from Rushville to Springfield and then probably took a more direct route to southern Illinois. The supplies are headed for several sectors along the vast flood front.

Many men are seeking to go into the stricken districts in search of employment. Red Cross reports indicate that men from outside are not needed.

Braddock-Louis Match Will Probably Be Stopped By The Garden's Signed Contracts

New York, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Contractual and financial obligations to Madison Square Garden made it appear unlikely today that Jimmy Braddock would defend his heavyweight boxing title against Joe Louis at Chicago in June.

Joe Gould, Braddock's wired-for-sound manager, joyfully screamed "Jim's ship has come in," discussing the telephoned offer of $500,000 and 30 per cent of the net gate receipts.

Sheldon Clark of Chicago made for the bout, Madison Square Garden, on the other hand, in a strikingly business-like gesture, pointed to its contract with the titleholder.

Braddock is bound by contract with the Garden to defend the championship against Max Schmeling in the Long Island City bout June 3. Furthermore, garden spokesmen said Braddock already had been advanced $5,000 for training expenses and "other monies." Gould said Braddock, all told, had received "around $15,000" in advance from the garden.

"When we make an agreement, we expect to live up to it," said John Reed Kilpatrick, president of the garden corporation. "And, we expect the same of the other parties to the contract."

That may seem strange in the fight business, but that's the way it is. I can't answer any hypothetical questions as to what we'll do if it looks like they're really going through with this Chicago proposition."

"This is just the blast of a desperate manager trying to get some publicity as well as to restore some of the prestige lost by Louis in his fight with Bob Pastor," said Jimmy Johnson, garden boxing director.

Gould isn't even thinking about the contract with the garden. He'll worry about that, he says, after Braddock "fattens Louis in Chicago." He's going before the New York State Athletic Commission Wednesday to try to recover a $5,000 guarantee posted for the Schmeling fight. After that he plans to go to Chicago to sign for a match with Louis.

"Gould's got the better chance of buying the Brooklyn Bridge than he has recovering that $5,000," said John Phelan, chairman of the commission. The commission, he said, would not officially take cognizance of the proposed Braddock-Louis fight until it is brought up by Gould or Mike Jacobs, who is in Chicago.

Free Throw Shooting Contest Features Opening Game; Browns, Indies Win

Mac's Clothes Shop cagers noosed out Lukemans' Clothiers in a foul goal shooting contest in the opening round of the Y. M. C. A. basketball league at the David Prince gymnasium last night. Abernathy sinking four straight free shots for Mac's to determine a winner after Jack Hartung sank a long shot in the last two seconds of play from the center of the court to tie the score.

Under the rules of the league, tie games are decided by shooting free throws. Abernathy dropped in four straight, and then Hartung, who made three in a row, missed on his fourth effort. There are no overtime sessions in the league.

Brown's Business College romped over the C. C. Quintet in the first game, 39 to 24, and the Smith Indies defeated the Illinois College Freshmen 29 to 22 in the nightcap.

Democrat Harmony Faces Test Today

Downstate, Upstate, Senators Liable to Differ

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—The Democratic harmony program faced a test today as legislators returned to Springfield for the first hard work of the regular session.

There was a possibility that downstate senators who backed Governor Horner in the 1936 campaign might openly complain that Chicagoans are dominating upper house committees.

Reports were that Senator Louis O. Williams of Clinton might introduce a resolution contending that some of the Democratic leaders aren't eligible to sit in the legislature because they hold jobs on Chicago payrolls.

The senate's first active business session is scheduled for Tuesday evening. The first bill will be introduced then, but Speaker Louis E. Lewis might not name his standing committees for another day or so.

Lewis is expected to follow the governor's wishes on the house leadership. The administration wasn't consulted when the senate committees were announced a month ago by President Pro Tem George M. Maypole of Chicago.

Maypole took the chairmanship of the executive committee, which passes on resolutions and during the 1936 session also considered gubernatorial appointments before submitting them for confirmation. Williams, who had been executive chairman, got a secondary post.

FAN BREEZES

NEGLECTED in the first assignment of teams to regional tournaments, Chapin high got in under the wire and caused the removal of Alsey from this regional to the White Hall sector. At least that's the way Eddie Lashmet of Chapin explains it.

CHAPIN received the routine notice that entries were acceptable, but that was not all. Then came another notice that their entry had not been received, and Lashmet fired in the entry before leaving the post-office after opening the letter. "Still Chapin wasn't listed." So Lashmet wrote a special delivery letter and the team was listed on the sheets by which the principals made their seedings for the tournaments.

Chicago.—(AP)—The Big Ten basketball championship drive, after a lull necessitated by mid-year examinations will resume tonight, with Chicago's cellar-occupying Maroons traveling to Columbus for a battle with the third place Ohio State Quinets.

The Buckeyes, winners of three of their four title starts this season, will be heavy favorites to take the Maroons, losers of six straight games.

Only two other championship games are on the week's program. Saturday night, Indiana goes to Iowa and Ohio State travels to Minneapolis to meet Minnesota.

May Scrap Contract To Meet Schmeling

Braddock Manager Believes J. Louis Better Bet

New York.—(AP)—Convinced the world's heavyweight championship is worth a million dollars, and that a title defense should net the champion at least half of that much, Jim Braddock plans to scrap his agreement to meet Max Schmeling, so he can take on Joe Louis for $500,000.

The titleholder's manager, Joe Gould, expressing certainty a Louis-Braddock championship bout will draw a million dollar gate and that Schmeling can attract no more than $200,000 announced yesterday he had accepted a half-million dollar offer for Braddock to tackle the Brown Bomber in Chicago's huge Soldiers' Field in June.

In so doing, he would toss aside the contract for a June 3 bout between Schmeling and Braddock in Madison Square Garden's Long Island Bowl, and the garden insists he "can't get away with it."

While Gould was explaining that the Louis fight offer came from Sheldon Clark, wealthy Chicago sportsman once associated with Tex Rickard in promoting the fight game's biggest all-time sale—the second Dempsey-Tunney clash—the garden's promoter, Jimmy Johnston, advised all concerned last night to "pay no attention to Gould." Schmeling, too, was incredulous, and decided it was a "publicity stunt."

"We have the champion signed to an iron-clad contract," Johnston declared. "And nobody ever got out of a garden contract. Gould can't go through with it."

The titleholder's pilot said he would go before the New York State Athletic Commission this week to ask return of the $5,000 check he posted as evidence of "good faith" in Braddock's intentions, at that time, to fight Schmeling on June 3.

"But whether the commission returns the check or not," Gould insisted, "we'll still go through with the fight in Chicago. My business is to make the most money I can for Braddock, and a Louis fight is the best bet."

"I'm not interested in what Madison Square Garden may do," he said in reply to a question. "That's up to them."

BOWLING CONGRESS PILES UP ENTRIES

New York.—(AP)—A new all-time entry record for the annual American Bowling Congress Tourney, to be held March 10 to April 30, is expected when the entry lists for five-man teams close tonight.

Al Lattin, who is promoting the tournament, has predicted 3,200 teams will be entered and the figure may go even higher. At Indianapolis last year 2,853 five-man units competed.

New York state is expected to send about 2,000 teams, of which 1,200 will be from the metropolitan area, to compete for the $120,000 prize money.

Blueboys Go To Williamsville For Game With Hawaiians; Rout to Play Host to Franklin

Local Games Tonight
Franklin at Routt (2 games).
I. C. at Williamsville.
J. H. S. at Feltshans.

Local basketball teams will swing into action tonight. All of them opening a week in which they are scheduled to play three games. The ban is still on at I. S. D. and there is some doubt that the Tigers will be able to fulfill any of their engagements.

Illinois College's three games call for an appearance tonight at Williamsville where the Blueboys will welcome back Louis Lester to the line-up at Wesleyan Wednesday night, where they will attempt to stop the team that has been the scourge of the conference this year, and on Saturday night, when they play host to Southern Illinois Teachers on the I. S. D. boards.

Jacksonville high goes to Springfield tonight for a game with Feltshans, then plays Mt. Pulaski here Friday night, and Winchester here Saturday night. Any of these games can be considered as tough, and the Crimson will have plenty of hard work during the week.

Routt has the local spotlight tonight, meeting Franklin's cagers in a Little Six conference game, at Liberty Hall and then taking on Chapin in another conference combat Friday night. Murrayville will come here Saturday night for the third of the conference games ahead of the Rockets.

Managing Officer Dan Cloud said yesterday that the ban was still on the Tigers, beginning the second month of their enforced idleness, but that the situation seemed favorable now toward having the quarantine removed. The Tigers have called off their game with Bluffs tonight, but may be able to keep engagements with Franklin and Rushville this week.

Van Meter Names Line-up

Last night, who became eligible just yesterday at I. C., will not lose much time getting into action. The six foot ten inch center, beginning his last semester of competition, will step out on the Williamsville hardwoods in his customary position.

Herb Scheffler, who has been playing the center post, will shift to a forward along with either Cecil Fletcher or Ira Scott, depending upon Fletcher's arm. Fletcher has a charity horse in one of his arms and it may not be deemed advisable for him to get into action.

Nick Watts, captain of the club, and Vergil Fletcher, will be the guards.

Two games are booked for the Springfield court. The Crimson probably will use their Freshman-Sophomore team against the Feltshans series, in the curtain raiser, slated for 7:15. The main tilt probably will begin about 8:30.

Campaign Planned By France, Britain To Win Hitler Over

Veterans' Organizations of Two Countries Endeavor to End Differences

Paris.—(AP)—A face-to-face meeting between Premier Leon Blum and Fuehrer Adolf Hitler to iron out Franco-German differences over collective peace was set today as the goal of veterans' organizations of the two countries.

While the unofficial machinery for close cooperation was set in motion by the erstwhile enemies in battle, official quarters said, France and Great Britain mapped plan to woo Hitler from his virtual isolation from Europe.

Striving to hold the door open to peace, foreign office sources said, the two western European democracies have decided to persist in parleys with Germany through public pleas by their principal statesmen, hoping thus to break down Hitler's resistance to collective security.

Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos fired the initial gun yesterday at a popular front meeting at Chateaux, de-

Athletic Director Van Meter pointed out that the Blueboys will be meeting an exceptionally fast team in the Hawaiians, but that the game wouldn't take too much out of the team. He said that the boys would be up only about an hour later than they would be if the squad held its regular practice at the I. S. D. gymnasium.

Illinois defeated the Hawaiians in an earlier game at Williamsville, and the return engagement was granted because the Hawaiians felt that they didn't put their best foot forward that night. Three of their players had been shaken up in an automobile accident prior to the game and hadn't conquered a set of jangled nerves.

Baptist Back At Routt

Coach Wallace Baptist came back to his Routt Rockets last night after an enforced absence of almost a week because of the flu. He immediately began working on the team to get it in shape for its three conference games this week, but expected to find plenty of trouble with Franklin. Chapin and Murrayville all offering for the Routt scalp, Franklin is in second place in the country basketball conference, and Murrayville is heading the parade.

All of the Rockets were in school and the coach said he expected to use the same line-up that appeared against Quincy Saturday night. Shannahan and Harmon, forwards, Perry center, Beerup and Hanley guards will be the starters.

There will be two games, the first of which is scheduled to begin at 7 p. m. and the second about 8:15.

Walker Is Uneaten

Whether he would be able to use Wayne Smith, the forward whose pass brought the Crimson a victory in three overtimes against White Hall Friday night, was worrying Coach Frank Walker yesterday. The forward was ill over the week-end and the coach was not certain whether he had regained enough strength to hold the position against the Flyers.

The Chapman line-up will consist of Leeper and Hanley, forwards, Baptist, center, Abell and Johnson guards, the coach said, with a strong possibility that Smith would get into the line-up if he was in condition. The coach said he expected to have Charley Keltner back with him in the days.

Two games are booked for the Springfield court. The Crimson probably will use their Freshman-Sophomore team against the Feltshans series, in the curtain raiser, slated for 7:15. The main tilt probably will begin about 8:30.

clearing Franco-German difference centered only on methods not of aims.

The private conferences between leaders of the veterans' groups marked the renewal of a three-year effort to restore friendship between France and Germany.

Maurice Randoux, member of the executive council of the Franco-German committee, announced, "More authorized leaders of our great group of veterans desire an early interview between the chief of the French government and the chancellor of the Reich."

"They consider direct conversation would be more efficacious than an exchange of ideas across space."

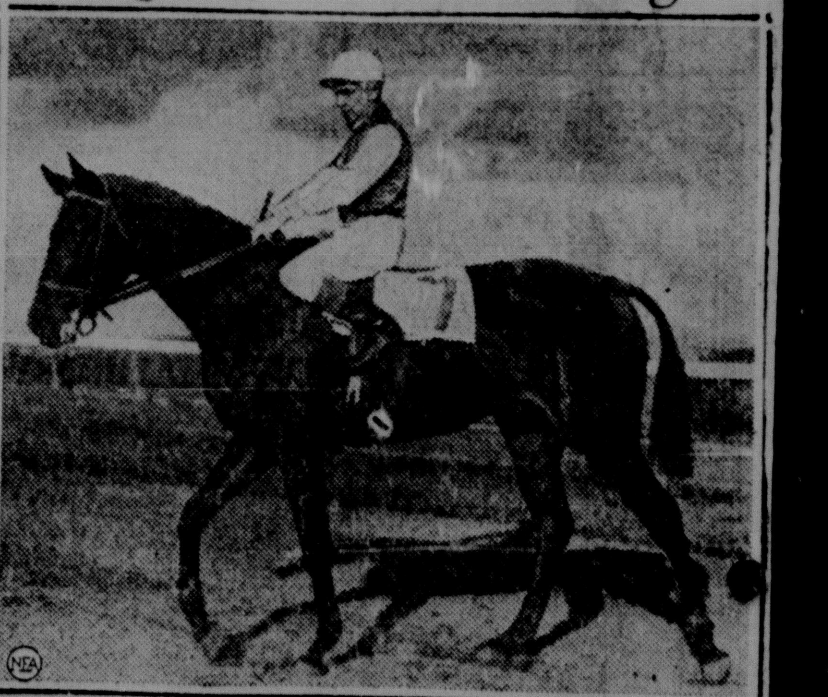

The negotiations, conducted by Ernest August, duke of Coburg, for Germany, previously received the approval of both governments.

Meanwhile the French government said it was continuing to try for clear answer from Hitler through Blum's speech Jan. 24 in which he asked for cooperation and peace through economic aid and disarmament.

Louisville Buries Unknown Dead in 150-Foot Trenches

In this trench eight feet wide and 150 feet long, Louisville, a city beset tragically by flood, fire and pestilence, buried its unidentified dead—victims of the greatest flood in the history of the U. S. Exact number of the city's dead was not known as the spades of the above workmen bit deeply into the sticky clay of a cemetery yet above the high water line, but at least 164 bodies had been recovered and it was feared the total would reach well over the 200 mark. Finger prints of these unidentified were taken and their bodies went into this common grave.

Lindberghs Leave England By Plane; May Go To Egypt

Destination Remains Secret; Leave In New Monoplane

Lympe, Eng., Feb. 1.—(P)—America's most famous flying couple, the Charles A. Lindberghs, took off today on another of their unannounced trips, and where they were going or what they were tonight remained a secret.

From Calais, France, came the first report of the fliers.

Lympe airdrome officials said they were informed the Lindberghs circled over the French city for half an hour.

After that there was no word, even up to 10:15 p. m. (5:15 p. m., E. S. T.).

Airdrome officials said they "believed" Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh were on their way to Cairo, Egypt. They added they had no definite information.

They roared away in mid-morning in the new orange and black monoplane, built for "Lindy" recently at Reading. The ship's gasoline tanks were full, but the plane probably could not travel more than 1,000 miles before refueling.

In Cairo, airport authorities said they knew nothing of the flight.

It appeared possible the veteran aviator might be going to the Egyptian city for an international aviation meet scheduled for Feb. 22 to 26, although he was not listed as an entrant.

After the Deluge Comes the Mop-Up

Beginning the house and street cleaning that soon must be undertaken in hundreds of cities and towns as Ohio and Mississippi flood waters recede, residents of Wheeling Island are shown above mopping up gobs of mud, evidence of the recent inundation. While the booted islander, at left, scrapes the slimy stuff off the sidewalk, the couple at right wash the walls of their home. One of the first communities swept by high water, Wheeling Island suffered less than many other Ohio river points.

INVINCIBLE CLASS HOLDS CHILI SUPPER LAST NIGHT

Members of the Invincible Class of Northminster Presbyterian church held their monthly meeting last night at the church, beginning with drum corps practice. This was followed by a program of entertainment and a chili supper. There was a large attendance.

ANGLO SAXON LIBERTY Washington, Feb. 1.—(P)—Representative Wadsworth (R-NY) told the house today that President Roosevelt's proposed abolition of the office of federal comptroller general would mean that congress would surrender control of federal purse strings to bureaucrats.

"Anglo-Saxon Liberty," he said, "is based on control of the purse strings by representatives of the people."

CHIMNEY FIRE The fire department was called to the residence of Mrs. Bertha Godbey, 401 N. Church street last night to extinguish a blaze in the chimney.

While the house was filled with smoke there was no damage from the fire.

The alarm was turned in at 9:30 o'clock.

MINER DROWNS Zeigler, Ill.—(P)—Holland Hall, 40-year-old miner, drowned yesterday in the Little Muddy river and authorities believed his companion, Peter Pedar, Jr., who went with him to try out a rowboat they built, met the same fate. Hall's body was found at the edge of the river and the overturned boat was found lodged in driftwood downstream.

Thousands of Refugees Jam Only Open Road to Memphis

Out of the lowlands of eastern Arkansas and Missouri came this never-ending stream of refugees across the Harahan bridge into Memphis. It was the only open route into the city and from the flood districts of the devastating Ohio and Mississippi rivers came the stricken residents—in autos, trucks, carts, on muleback and in wagons. All carried supplies and movable belongings. Some drove livestock before them. Memphis, already caring for 10,000 among which were 50 cases of influenza and uncounted other ailments, prepared to receive 50,000 and prayed the city would be spared an epidemic.

Care of 230,000 on His Shoulders

There are tired lines in his face, but the quizzical look which Mayor-Provoost Marshall Neville Miller, above gives the two constantly jangling telephones on his desk at Louisville, seems to indicate he is bearing up well enough. On his shoulders fell the burden of caring for 230,000 homeless in flooded Louisville, which was three-fourths under water, threatened by a water shortage, fire and epidemic and damaged to the extent of at least $25,000,000.

13 EXECUTED IN RUSSIA; EXPECT FUTURE TRIALS

Soviets Refuse To Disclose Method Of Death

Indications Are That Others Will Soon Follow

Moscow, Feb. 1.—(P)—Thirteen men convicted of treasonable opposition to the Soviet regime were executed today, but just how, when or where the official announcement did not disclose.

The 13 were added to the lengthening list of domestic enemies wiped out by the Moscow regime in its 19-year fight to eradicate what it calls Trotskyism. They were convicted early Saturday by the military collegium of the Supreme court on a variety of charges. Treason, espionage, conspiracy and sabotage. The official announcement merely said laconically the sentence of death by shooting "was carried out Feb. 1."

Among those executed were several formerly high in Soviet state councils. Indications tonight were that others of equal or greater distinction soon may follow.

Demands for another spectacular political trial continued in workers' meetings, evidently with official inspiration. The most frequently mentioned as prospective defendants were Nikolai Bukharin, recently dismissed from editorship of the government newspaper Izvestia; and Alexis I. Rykoff, former president of the council of peoples' commissars.

Foreign observers believed two other former leaders might figure in a new trial, either as defendants or witnesses. These were Karl Radek, once considered spokesman for the government through his articles in Izvestia, and Gregory Sokolnikoff, former ambassador to Great Britain. Both were convicted of treason with the thirteen who died today but sentenced only to ten-year prison terms.

It was suggested their lives might have been spared to permit them to testify in future trials, or they may suffer a fate like that of Gregory Zinoviev and Leon Kameneff, Bolshevik leaders who first were given prison terms for alleged Trotskyism, but later were retried, condemned to death and shot with fourteen others last August.

The 13 executed today paid with their lives because of their confessions they had carried out orders from the exiled Leon Trotsky to wreck and sabotage the very things they, as high officials, were supposed to build up and advance. Several testified to participation in Trotskyist intrigues to pay Germany and Japan with rich Russian provinces for attacking the Soviet Union and to supplying secret information to Japanese and German agents.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Love" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 31.

The Golden Text was, "The Lord thy God in the midst of thee is mighty; he will save, he will rejoice over thee with joy; he will rest in his love, he will joy over thee with singing" (Zechariah 13:17).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "O God, thou art my God; early will I seek thee; my soul thirsteth for thee, my flesh longeth for thee in a dry and thirsty land where no water is: To see thy power and thy glory, for I have seen thee in the sanctuary. Because thy loving kindness is better than life, my lips shall praise thee" (Psalms 63:1-3).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "People go into ecstasies over the sense of a corporeal Jehovah, though with scarcely a spark of love in their hearts; yet God is Love, and without Love, God, immortally cannot appear." "Mortals believe in a finite personal God; while God is infinite Love, which must be unlimited" (p. 312).

An enthusiastic group was present Monday evening for the training course for directors and council members of the Girl Scout organization, held at the public library, under the supervision of Miss Dorothy Palmer, of Chicago, from the Regional office of Girl Scouts. It is the hope of the sponsors that all who are interested will attend the meetings to be held this week.

The meeting for Tuesday evening will be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at the New Dunlap hotel at 7:30 o'clock.

On Wednesday a luncheon will be held at the Peacock Inn at 12:00 o'clock for council members, meeting with Miss Palmer for discussion of future plans.
